

"Best for hunger. Best for thirst.
Borden's always. Safety first."

Little Georgie Heimpel, of 271 West 156th Street, wrote the above rhyme. No doubt each noon, when, hungry and thirsty, he comes running home from school, his Mother gives him a glass of Borden's milk. Georgie's Mother knows that she is giving her boy a pure, safe, and nutritious food, just the thing for growing boys and girls. Since way back in the 80's Borden's have given the people of New York a regular and abundant supply of fresh, pure, healthful, creamy milk. Phone and have our solicitor call and arrange for every day delivery.

Harriet Hearn Is Sued for Divorce By Hotel Keeper

Allegations Covering Three Cities Made of Woman Who Brought Action Against H. Havemeyer

Harriet Hearn, who is suing Hector Havemeyer for $100,000 for alleged breach of promise, was yesterday served with summons and complaint in a divorce action instituted by Garry Hearn, a Schenectady hotel man. Service of papers in the divorce suit came after the filing by Havemeyer of an amended answer to the complaint of Miss Hearn, as she calls herself, in which she avers she has a "record of adventure and blackmail" and is in a conspiracy with others to extort money from him.

Hearn says that he and Mrs. Hearn were married June 1, 1908. He mentions alleged indiscretions by his wife in Albany and Schenectady and also at the Hotel Richmond, in West Forty-fifth Street, this city. It was in this hotel, according to the manicurist, that Mr. Havemeyer engaged a suite of rooms for her.

Mr. Hearn in his complaint mentions two unidentified men in connection with his wife's alleged misconduct at the Hotel Richmond. The papers were served at her apartment, 136 West Forty-fourth Street.

Hector Havemeyer, who lives at 375 Park Avenue, is a member of the Havemeyer family, sugar refiners; is prominent socially and married. In his amended answer he denies he ever promised to marry Miss Harriet Hearn and adds that not only was she a married woman at the time the promise was alleged to have been made, but that she knew he was also married and could not possibly have wedded her.

He basis his charges that she has a record of blackmail on the purported investigations of private detectives. He declares her suit is the consummation of a conspiracy among her and several others, who have agreed to divide any money they might obtain from him. He asserts he has turned down offers to settle the case out of court.

Hempstead Banker Dies

Edward Cooper Expires Within Six Weeks After Partner

Edward Cooper, president of the Hempstead Bank and a leading citizen of Hempstead, Long Island, for many years, died at his home there yesterday after a brief illness. Six weeks ago Mr. Cooper lost, through death, his partner, Henry Powell, with whom he had been associated in the grocery business for more than fifty years. Grief over Mr. Powell's death is thought to have contributed to the rapid decline of Mr. Cooper.

After his partner's death Mr. Cooper decided to sell the grocery concern. A week ago he entered the store for the last time and made arrangements for the stock to be sold under the hammer. He went home and lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he never recovered.

He was a former president of the Queens-Nassau County Agricultural Society, treasurer of the Village of Hempstead for twenty years, and chief of the Hempstead Fire Department. He is survived by his widow, Adeline Hendrickson Cooper; two daughters, Ida Cooper and Mrs. John B. Wood, and a grandson, John Edward Cooper Wood.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home, 65 Washington Street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Greenfield Cemetery, Hempstead.

Would YOU Light YOUR Office with Candles?

"If you can conceive of any modern office being lighted with candles, then you will understand why up-to-date firms continue to spend thousands of dollars on form and process letters which are such transparent imitations that nobody will read them.

"Five years ago, or before the advent of Hooven, this class of correspondence had to be tolerated. But now that hundreds of firms have demonstrated the advantages of Hooven letters, it is safe to prophesy that in five years more there will not be one firm in a hundred that will risk insulting the intelligence of their correspondents with form and process letters."

PAUL M. HOOVEN.

FIVE YEARS ago this month the Hooven Automatic Typewriter began a new era in the production of quantity correspondence.

The year 1915 marked the perfection of a machine which produces in quantity actual type-written letters, each one an original—each one written especially for the person who receives it. A machine which cuts out 80% of your postage waste and strikes four names from your payroll for every machine used. And yet astonishing as it may seem Hooven letters cost far less than the process or form variety.

One concern we know sent out 50,000 "process" letters at a cost to them of $2,201 and received just 1,397 replies. In other words, each letter that was read cost $1.57. And they thought they were saving money, because they figured only the first cost.

There wasn't anything wrong with the letter, either, except—it wasn't read. Ninety-seven per cent of those fifty thousand letters went to waste because the recipients knew them for just what they were—imitations.

Back in 1915 the first Hooven Automatic Typewriter was sold, and the first job on Letter Service was produced.

Wm. Salomon and Co., Bankers, were the purchasers of the first machine, and the first letters were typed for the Merchants' Association of New York. Is it not significant that these two first purchasers have ever since used Hooven letters? And that among the hundreds of others to whom this almost human machine has convincingly demonstrated its worth are found such names as—The New York Lubricating Oil Co., The Pacific Bank, The Kelly-Springfield Tire Co., Pace and Pace, The Silent Partner, The National Employment Exchange, and hundreds of others.

Are these not splendid indications of what Hooven can do for you?

The work of Hooven can well be termed a modern miracle, when you consider that, regardless of the number of letters it produces, each and every one of them is read and accepted by the recipient as a personal and individual communication, and has just as much selling force and receives just as much consideration as though you had dictated it yourself. And therein lies the reason upon which Mr. Hooven oases his prophecy that by 1925 form and process letters will have taken their place in history along with the quill pen and the stage coach of our forefathers.

It will pay you to investigate Hooven. There is a representative who is an expert in mail problems ready to tell you what the Hooven can do in your business.

A phone call or letter places his knowledge at your disposal without any obligation to buy.
